

LinxBlue

Conventional Pop-Up Frame System

If you want a cost-effective display now, that will save you even more money in the future, LinxBlue offers a unique solution.

A sister product to the more sophisticated 300 Series architecture frame, LinxBlue is an excellent value stand alone pop-up display in its own right, but also offers advantages to clients who may wish to expand their display over time.

Outstanding Value for Money

The LinxBlue design makes it very cost effective to manufacture, without conceding on the high quality of the component parts. We think you'll be hard pressed to find as good a system for the same price and the light weight Leonardo case (pictured) completes the kit perfectly.

Uniquely Upgradeable

If you later wish to trade in your LinxBlue for a 300 series architecture frame, you can continue to use the same mag-bars and graphics panels! Or, because it shares the same footprint as its sister product, you can seamlessly join the frame to a larger layout using ghost graphic panels.

